

"Gestapo" Head Faints During Probe Evidence

Rowe had asked him to keep the conversation in "strict confidence" and had done so. Rowe gave him permission to repeat it to Commissioner W. H. Stricker a few days after Mr. Joliffe's May 18 broadcast alleged existence of a "Gestapo".

HE WAS NOT SURPRISED

Hammond said he had not been "particularly surprised" at Rowe's complaint, which had "confirmed some of my suspicions" regarding Osborne-Dempster.

Questioned by F. Andrew Brown, counsel for Mr. Joliffe, witness said that "never to my knowledge" had reports on members of the legislature been made at the special branch before Osborne-Dempster took over office in November, 1943. Wednesday Osborne-Dempster confessed authorship of numerous reports on CCF house members following that date.

Hammond, supervisor of the special branch from July, 1942, to June 29, 1944, testified through the morning and afternoon sessions on his dealings with Osborne-Dempster in that period.

He said some of Osborne-Dempster's reports "weren't relevant" to the work of what was then an anti-sabotage branch. He had been unable to get satisfaction from Osborne-Dempster as to the latter's intentional misstatements.

COPIES AT HOME

Hammond said he had taken up with Deputy Police Commissioner McCreedy Osborne-Dempster's statement that he kept at home copies of all office reports.

On another occasion, Hammond testified, he advised the deputy commissioner that he had "nothing but a political spy" in the branch.

He also testified that he had questioned Osborne-Dempster on the matter and the latter had insisted making the trip. McCreedy said he had not investigated the matter further.

SAID NOT REPORTED

Robinson referred to Hammond's testimony that he had found a man from a credit agency looking through card indexes in the special branch and that McCreedy had been "amused" when informed of the incident.

"He did not report it to me," McCreedy said. "We had no discussion of his behavior in the period."

"I can't understand why two senior officers of the criminal investigation branch would disagree so definitely on such matters," observed Robinson.

Witness said that "said McCreedy."

He denied that Hammond had told him of his behavior in the period. Osborne-Dempster was "nothing but a political spy," he testified.

GREAT DIVERGENCE

"It is another case of denying or not having recollection," Robinson testified. "I deny that," McCreedy retorted.

"Can you tell me why there is such a remarkable divergence of opinion between two senior officers of the Ontario Provincial Police?" Robinson pursued.

"That's Hammond's evidence," replied McCreedy. "Questioned, he said he had 'no recollection' of any conversation with me in regard to this matter."

"Did you give him any instructions at any time?" asked H. L. Carvill, Rowe's counsel.

"I did not," McCreedy replied. "I carry on with what?"

"The work he was doing," by which he meant the anti-sabotage work of the special branch from 1940 to 1944, witness added.

He had several discussed Osborne-Dempster's activities with Premier Drew or Attorney-General Blair, McCreedy said, nor had he either ever instructed him to get any political information.

NO AUTHORIZATION

He had not authorized Osborne-Dempster to give information to Sanderson or Gladstone Murray or any person not connected with the provincial police, witness said.

Questioned further regarding Osborne-Dempster's reports, McCreedy said they were occasionally brought to him, in either form of memorandum or letter, and forwarded to the police commission.

He had recommended that Osborne-Dempster be taken on the regular force in 1944 because he was "influenced by a favorable report on the man made by Inspector Hammond more than a year earlier."

Witness said Rowe had never made mention of special branch activities to him, and he could not recall conversations with Rowe mentioned in the latter's testimony.

took over the special branch in November, 1943, conceded he had "several" discussions with Hammond on the matter and that McCreedy had been "amused" when informed of the incident.

The deputy commissioner recalled Hammond relating that Osborne-Dempster had made a 1942 trip to Windsor against his orders.

On the revelation of a letter from Osborne-Dempster to Ben Leavins, CCF member, who had testified making the trip, McCreedy said he had not investigated the matter further.

District News in Brief

Marriages, Anniversary, Shower Are District Social Highlights

LLOYDMINSTER—The congregation of St. John's Church, Lloydminster, gathered Saturday afternoon when the marriage of Margaret Frances, only daughter of the late Canon and Mrs. J. P. Haynes, and Norman Leonard, only son of the late Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Stanley of Greenwood, was solemnized. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. W. H. Peckover, rector of St. John's.

The Rev. C. W. Downer of Saskatoon, gave the bride in marriage. She wore a floor length gown of creamy satin, with a train of applied corded silk, lilac point sleeves and sweetheart neckline. The bride's attendants were Mrs. W. H. Peckover, matron of honor, and Miss Audrey Huxley, bridesmaid. The groom was supported by Ross Reid, and the ushers were Desmond and Glen Regan.

Musical for the service was supplied by the choir, with Mrs. H. R. Fleming at the organ. During the signing of the register, Miss Huxley sang "Beaute".

Following the ceremony, a reception was tendered by the Women's Auxiliary to St. John's Church. Tea was poured by Mrs. A. R. Brown and Mrs. S. M. Hall. Toast to the bride was proposed by the rector. Bridgework's reply was in verse, and the bride and groom, on their return, they will make their home in the Greenwood district.

McCoy Health Service

Sleeping sickness in the chronic stage may manifest itself by various changes. For example, it may produce what is known as the parkinsonian syndrome in which the patient exhibits such symptoms as rigidity of the muscles of the face, giving the face the appearance of a mask; rigidity of the arms and legs; lack of normal ability to swing the arms; very slow movement; very slow speech; and turning movements of the eyes.

One of the first results of the parkinsonian syndrome produced by sleeping sickness may be the slowing down of physical movements. When the normal person moves around, or makes the specific movements required in eating, dressing, talking and so on, he is not consciously aware of the series of movements which take place but carries them out automatically. The patient in the chronic stage of sleeping sickness in some cases seems to lose this power of automatic movement and therefore stops and thinks out each movement before he makes it. Some times the patient forgets which movement comes next and must stop and think before he can begin to talk.

Because the patient is giving all of his thought to the moving of the muscles of the body, he will not talk while he is doing anything. One of the curious symptoms which may develop shows itself in a stoppage of speech and the patient may stop speaking in the middle of a sentence and stand there for the month open. Or he may open the mouth a minute or two before he begins to talk.

One woman who recovered from sleeping sickness and who wrote the account of the symptoms she experienced afterward, reported that the double vision sometimes seen in the acute stage of sleeping sickness persisted in her for 17 years. Double vision refers to the seeing of a single object as though it were double. She also reported a strong tendency to become drowsy and fall asleep for long periods of time.

In the chronic stage of the disease, marriage is beneficial and the same is often true of hydrotherapy or water-treatment. The patient should be warned against becoming over-tired, either through working too hard or through excitement or other emotional strain.

All questions regarding health and diet will be answered. Large pamphlet, self-addressed envelope must be enclosed. Write on one side of paper only. Letters must not exceed 150 words. Address

Youths Save Chum In Near Drowning

LLOYDMINSTER—Details of a near drowning fatality near Lloydminster have come to light. According to reports from Reg. W. A. Lloydminster public school student got out of his depth in the dam east of Lloydminster which is used by the young people of town as a swimming hole. Young W. A. apparently slipped into a hole about nine feet deep.

Fortunately, among students gathered there, was Bob Bellward, who dived for the boy and was successful. Pauline Gubrie, a young public school student, ran barefooted down the stony road to the nearest telephone to summon aid, and in the meantime, later Jones, a high school student, commenced artificial respiration on the lad.

Dr. A. B. Cooke was soon on the scene and had the lad in his car. At hospital he was given further treatment and additional oxygen. The boy has fully recovered from his experience.

Amnesia Victim Found at Calgary

According to a report from Calgary, a 15-year-old boy wandered into Calgary police headquarters Thursday evening and said he was suffering from loss of memory. He told police he thought he lived on a farm north of Edmonton but did not know his parents' names.

Edmonton police had received only one query regarding a missing boy, the 16-year-old son of G. Garrison, 855 24 avenue, has been missing since Tuesday night. At that time, he was described as wearing a brown windbreaker and overalls, and no cap. He was fair-haired.

Mr. Garrison said he had no reason to believe his son was suffering from loss of memory and believed the boy might be headed toward Peace River.

Investigation is continuing.

Pictures Reveal Canadian Effort

Who is he? That was the question being asked at the Empire town in the Hudson's Bay Co. Ltd. store at which visitors viewed the National Film Board's new picture, "The Canadian Effort," which is being shown for three weeks.

The picture shows an Edmonton business man moving his lawn Donald Buchanan, displays director for NFB and film director, is chairman of the board at Ottawa, said Friday he hoped someone would be able to identify the picture during the presentation of the exhibition.

The display, which includes 100 small size photographs and several hundred smaller pictures, all from negative measuring two and a half by three and a half inches, is an attempt to show Canadians something of their home Dominion.

It is broken down into various groups, such as "the people and the land," "the child grows," "the old adage and the new," "into battle" and something of the work of the three fighting services. Several of the pictures are aerial feet square.

Included are 10 or 12 pictures of Edmonton, including the travelling library, airport, and a laboratory at the University of Alberta.

Mr. Buchanan said the display is being shown at Vancouver and then Eastern Canada.

Kids Start Fire

Children playing with matches were blamed for a fire which badly scorched a garage located at 10437 87 avenue Thursday afternoon, according to the city fire department.

The garage was estimated by equipment from No. 6 fire unit to be about 100 feet long and the time, and is believed to have been used for storage purposes.

Many Apply For Family Cheques

To date $400 applications for family allowance have been filed by Albertans, according to H. C. L. Gilman, regional director of the Department of Social Services.

Of the total 250 were received on Thursday. About 100 persons in the province are eligible for the benefit, but it is estimated that the number of applications will be about 35,000.

It is said that those not applying are persons in the higher income brackets.

Applications must be in Mr. Gilman's office in the New Market Building not later than June 30, if the applicant is to receive the first cheque, which will be sent out in July.

Acceptance of family allowance does not mean that the recipient's taxable income will be increased by the amount of the payment.

Duck Conservation Will Be Expanded

Approximately $1,000,000 has been spent, and $200,000 will be spent this year in duck conservation projects in the province, according to Winnipeg, general manager, Ducks Incorporated of Canada, stated on his arrival here to survey projects now in operation, and to locate possible areas for future projects.

He is accompanied by Arthur Bartley, New York, general manager of Ducks Unlimited, Inc., who is the parent body, who will accompany him on his tour.

Mr. Main said there were 20 conservation projects in operation in the province, and 15 were in operation in the Western Irrigation District.

The Inquiring Reporter

What do you think of the B.C. government's plans for building a connecting link through that province to the Alaska Highway in the Peace River area?

THE ANSWERS

W. REID, sheetmetal worker: I think B.C. is making a good move. The more roads and highways through the northwest the sooner the country will be developed.

J. BRINKMAN, clerk: Settlement always follows the building of roads. I think we cannot have too many roads in the northwest.

W. RICHARDSON, war veteran: Some people seem to think Edmonton will suffer through a B.C. road. I think it will not. It will do for this. I am for more and more roads throughout the northwest.

Full Basements Asked For Homes

Request has been made by the city commissioners to Hon. James A. Macdonald, minister of trade and commerce and Member of Parliament for Edmonton West, that he endeavor to obtain full basements under the second 100 houses built in the Ritchie district by Wartime Housing Ltd.

In the telegram sent Mr. Macdonald it was urged that full basements be provided, but if their provision means a considerable delay in starting the work, then it is suggested that the construction proceed as originally planned.

Representations will be made also to Ottawa that the other 200 houses, the balance of 300 that were to be built by the crown company here, be proceeded with as soon as possible. City Council at a recent meeting requested by unanimous resolution that the entire 400 be erected to help relieve the serious housing shortage here.

20 Land Sales Made by City

Twenty sales were made Thursday by the city by the department for $8,375, in one of the department's busiest days in recent weeks. Of the sales 15 were to prospective home builders, four were for extension of homesites, and two for market gardening purposes. One sale made was the redemption of a property by its former owner which had been forfeited for taxes.

During Friday morning six building permits for homes were issued as follows: A. Dellick, 3021 90th street, $2,900; C. D. Brown, 114 street, $4,000; A. Wolanski, 11350 66 street, $2,600; W. Johnson, 1001 72 street, $1,500; D. Ursell, 114 street, $1,000; and Mrs. M. Hester, 11404 47 street, $2,500.

Coal Production Reveals Increase

Alberta coal output for the five-month period January-May, 1945, amounted to 2,384,702 tons, according to figures released by John Crawford, chief inspector of mines for the province. This is an increase over the same period of last year when 2,240,162 tons were produced.

The Edmonton area produced in May, 1945, a total of 20,282 tons as against 14,235 tons in May of last year. In the five-month period 172,408 tons were produced against 151,257 tons for the same period last year.

In the hitherto full year there was a total of 261,224 tons produced as against 414,312 tons in May of last year.

Refunding Parley

Norman S. Taler, New York, who is acting as fiscal agent for the Provincial government in the refunding of its debt, arrived in Edmonton Friday to confer with provincial officials on details of the refunding plan.

Leave For Harvest

To date about 75 Alberta men have answered the appeal for farm workers to go to Ontario and assist in baying and early harvest work according to a list of inquiries received from 153 others who have expressed interest in the work.

POLICE COURT

Agnes Lubianic was sentenced to three months hard labor when she appeared in city police court Friday, charged with intoxication. She admitted a previous record of conviction.

Ivan Erickson, for a breach of the Vehicle Highway Traffic Act, was fined $25 and costs for 30 days imprisonment.

CPA Inaugurates Revised Schedule

Proponents of inauguration of regular scheduled flights between Whitehorse and Fairbanks, Alaska, were met by the city of Whitehorse on Thursday night. A new schedule becomes operative Monday between Edmonton and Whitehorse on Canadian Pacific Air Lines.

District Traffic Manager Kramer said that the week-day flight will leave Edmonton at 3:30 p.m. starting Monday. Instead of 9:45 a.m. as at present. The return flight will arrive here from Whitehorse at 12:30 a.m. (midnight) instead of 5 p.m. as former. Flights are daily with the exception of Sundays.

Paving Project Nears Completion

The paving of the Highlands freeway has been progressing rapidly and the concrete base has now been completed from 79 street to 1st street. The pouring of the top layer will be finished next, it was announced at the city engineer's department.

Immediately after the summer for the lifting of the street car tracks west of 79 avenue will be undertaken and the repaving of the space where the tracks were will be started.

Buses will be operated on the strips on both side of the track during this operation, and when it is completed the buses will operate on the newly paved centre strip.

Delegates Return From Conference

Returning from the San Francisco Conference, a party of about 50 naval, military and civil aviation officials and workers of the Russian delegation at the world security conference, stopped briefly in Edmonton Thursday on the way back to Russia by air.

Several USAF Air Wing Command planes brought the delegates to Edmonton, and continued on north after a brief halt of two or three hours.

The Soviet Security conference delegates were welcomed by U.S. military officials and by Maj. Gen. W. Foster, CMG, DSO, VD, assistant Canadian commander for Northwest Defense Division.

Other delegates were due to pass through Edmonton Friday.

Girl Scouts Do Noble Work; Mold Characters

Establishing "Thinking Day" Helps Young to Look to the Future; Realities of Life Thoughtful

The Girls Scout—may Allah bless them and their noble intent—have set a day for serious meditation which they designate as "Thinking Day" and which should be a red letter day on all of our calendars.

For now, thank heaven, they are likely to get some respect that really refers, and to have the juvenile delinquency problem solved at last, because, as everyone knows, the follies and crimes of youth are seldom committed with malice aforethought. They are just the result of thoughtlessness. Nothing is more true than the old aphorism that wrong is wrought by want of thought, as well as want of heart.

What great subjects these youngsters are going to mull over in their hours of soul communion, we have not been told, but anything that takes their minds off of class and lipstick and crumpled socks and a few lipstuck and makes them ponder upon the realities of life is bound to do a lot towards securing the happiness and well-being of the girl themselves, and so keep their mother from anguishing gray hair before their time.

Use of the greatest mistake that parents make is in believing that they can do their children's thinking for them, and that when they tell Mary and Johnny that they must do this and they mustn't do that, and that this course is the wise one to take and the other the wrong one, that they will accept Father and Mother's verdict and be guided by it. This is a classical theory, but it doesn't work out in real life. The only cure of conduct by which modern youth is held is the one it works out for itself.

So that while it is so important that boys and girls should be taught to think for themselves, Father and Mother may give themselves a little skin and bone trying to impress upon them the responsibilities of life and make them see that sooner or later, in one way or another, each of us must settle our account with fate, but their administrative work of the youngsters' consciousness.

Your Baby Alberta And Mine Great Centre Heavy Industry

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDERED
A mother has to learn how to do the inappropiate food feeding, the Grandmother—yes, and grandfathers—find this too easy a way to win favor from the baby. They feed a candy box handy, or a box of cookies with which to tickle the children's palates when they come to talk. When the baby is offered it they cannot offer him some of the food from the table. "Oh, just this little bit won't hurt him."

Neighbors often are unwittingly caused of the child's lack of appetite. Mrs. Snigger gave me some cookies. Says Evelyn to me, "I'm not eating them, they're not good." Every time Evelyn leaves the house she runs to Mrs. Snigger's, where she knows she can get what her mother refuses her at home.

One can see how difficult it is for the grandparents or the neighbors to take the baby seriously. Children have always been spoiled, and they are more so now. They are given everything they want, and they are given it all the time. They are given everything they want, and they are given it all the time. They are given everything they want, and they are given it all the time.

These women—"Run over to the studio like a good boy, and get my eyes—like the sun is hurting my eyes!"

Ask That Highway Be Kept After War

The Edmonton Chamber of Commerce has appointed an Alaska Highway committee to make representation to Prime Minister Mackenzie King to have the Alaska Highway maintained in the post-war period.

At a council meeting of the chamber on Tuesday afternoon, members agreed that everything possible should be done to have the highway maintained as an essential road, vital to the servicing of northern airports and the development of the whole of the northwest.

Those appointed to the committee are: T. J. Jones, C. H. Grant, James A. Christensen, R. V. MacCormack and A. M. MacDonald.

DRAGONFLIES NEVER STING PEOPLE

The common green-winged dragonfly, sometimes called a "darning needle" or "snakehead," is perfectly harmless and cannot sting people. Dragonflies are charged with many public tasks, such as feeding snakes, sewing up children's ears and serving as "devils driving poisons." These important tasks live about streams and lakes and consume a variety of insects. They fly either forward or backward without turning. They are our friends and should not be killed.

Alberta Heavy Industry

Alberta is envisioned as the most important province because of its mighty coal resources. The Alberta coal fields are the second largest in the world, being second only to those of the north in the U.S.A.

Alberta fields contain considerably more coal than the combined fields of Germany and Poland and coal always leads to great industrial development. Heavy industry is bound to finally arise in such an area.

Letbridge and Drumheller are likely to be Canadian Pittsburgh of the future, the writer believes.

TAR SANDS DESTINY

The tar sands of Fort McMurray will play a great role in the future development of the province. As greater in the opinion of Prof. G. H. B. Campbell, Alberta publicity director.

Great Bay Lake and Yellowknife are becoming increasingly more important and the Alaska Highway will open up much new country, particularly to tourists, he predicts.

The great air routes now developing will become increasingly more important in the serial future of the world and these main routes pass through Alberta and the north-west part of Canada.

Social Crediters Plan Hold Caucus

Russ Visitor Lauds Soviet Friendship

Speaking at a meeting of the film society group of the Canadian Friendship Council in the Medical building at the University of Alberta Wednesday night, V. G. Pavlov, second secretary at the Russian embassy in Ottawa, expressed appreciation of the work done by the group. Mr. Pavlov recalled the signature of a treaty at the San Francisco peace conference.

Mr. Pavlov said he did not understand the significance of the word "peace" in Canada. He said that it will do much to promote and strengthen the friendship between the two countries.

Two short subjects, "Builders of Peace," which reviewed some Big Three activities, and "20,000 Years in Moscow," were filmed together with the comedy feature "They Met in Moscow." A commentary on the film was given by James Spillane.

Infant at Jasper Fifth Generation Court Dismisses Sentence Appeal

There is no more degraded or vile crime than educating young girls or boys by deliberately teaching them to become adults in the manner of their parents physically, mentally and morally. Judge J. Boyd Macdonald, who presided over the appeal of Leo P. Langdon against conviction and 15 months' sentence imposed on a charge of contributing to the delinquency of a juvenile.

Langdon was convicted by Magistrate L. R. Jackson, on a charge of being implicated in the administering of a drug to a juvenile, five witnesses of the act of administering the drug testified at the appeal.
